

September 23, 2016

Regulatory Roundup is a weekly compilation of employee wellness and safety news. Please share this information with your policyholders as appropriate. For suggestions, contact David Wylie at ext. 3863.

Texas Mutual News

2016 Best CEOs: Rich Gergasko, Texas Mutual

Texas Mutual President and CEO Rich Gergasko was named among the best CEOs of 2016 by the Austin Business Journal...MORE

VR safety tool earns innovation award

Texas Mutual earned an SMA Innovation in Action Award for its Safety in a Box virtual reality training tool. The award spotlights insurers and solution providers who completed transformational projects or initiatives in the past year...MORE

10 tips for surviving an OSHA inspection

OSHA increased its fee structure by 80 percent in August. This week's blog post featured 10 tips employers can follow to stay off OSHA's radar and survive an audit if an inspector comes knocking...MORE

Federal Motor Carrier Safety Administration (FMCSA)

FMCSA issues final rule on windshield-mounted technologies

The FMCSA has amended its regulations to allow the voluntary mounting of certain devices on the interior of the windshields of commercial motor vehicles, including placement within the area that is swept by the windshield wipers...MORE

Department of Transportation (DOT)

Feds outline plans to regulate autonomous vehicles

Federal officials have been struggling with how to capitalize on autonomous vehicle technology's promised safety benefits while making sure they are ready for widespread use. This week, the DOT unveiled a 15-point plan that seeks to strike a balance between safety and burdensome bureaucracy...MORE

Studies, Resources, Trends

Workplace safety, health professionals in demand: OSHA panel

Lack of awareness of safety as a career field is one reason for the gap between safety professional supply and demand, according to an OSHA advisory panel. With retirement on the near horizon for many experienced safety professionals, the panel is exploring ways to bring more qualified candidates into the fold...MORE

Lyft to transition to autonomous cars within 5 years

Within five years, a majority of ride-hailing company Lyft's rides will be in self-driving cars, the company's co-founder and president predicted. Meanwhile, Lyft's main competitor Uber is starting to carry passengers around Pittsburgh in autonomous cars with a human backup driver...MORE

Brake lock up causes fire in trucks

The S-cam brake is a design commonly used in trucks. This step-by-step guide shows how brake-lock caused a real-life fire...MORE